

SINCLAIR HELD IN CONTEMPT: NEXT STEP UNCERTAIN

Pavement of Polo Road May Start in Spring

BIDS FOR WORK OPENED BY ILL. HIGHWAY DEPT.

May Have to Re-Advertise for Grading Nearer Dixon

See Map on Page 7.
(Telegraph Special Service.)
Springfield, March 22.—The J. J. Dunnegan Construction Company of Shenandoah, Iowa, was the lowest bidder for paving section 7, route 26, in Ogle and Lee counties when this bid was opened here by the State Department of Public Works and Buildings. Their bid was $205,917. The section runs from Polo, south through Woodstock, John G. Drew, of Tampico, with a bid of $17,571, was the lowest bidder for grading section 8-A, route 26, in Lee county, north of Dixon.

District Engineer O. F. Goeckel of the local department of highways office stated that the Dunnegan company in all probability would start work very soon, on section 7, south of Polo. It has not been necessary to advertise for bids for grading on this section as no heavy grading work is necessary and the pouring of concrete will proceed as rapidly as the forms are built. The paving contract will connect with the south city limits of Polo and terminate at a point about three miles north of Dixon.

Section 8 which starts at a point about 300 feet south of the Lowell park road on North Galena avenue, does not connect with the city limits of Dixon. This route, however, requires heavy grading, there being numerous hills which will have to be cut down and heavy fills made. At the local highway office it was said that it might be possible to re-advertise for the grading contract as the party to whom the contract was awarded had failed to qualify in another contract for grading work near Amboy on route 2.

PLAINTIVE WAIL FROM ROCHELLE ON PAYMENT OF FINES

Motorist from There Takes "Hot Shot" at Dixon Police Court.

Last Sunday night when members of the police department brought in 17 drivers of automobiles who did not obey traffic rules at the corner of Seventh street and Galena avenue, there was one of the offenders from Rochelle, who did not approve of the small fine assessed against him for violation of the law and evidenced his anger in the columns of one of the papers of that city in the following article:

DIXON EXPRESSES TRADE APPRECIATION.

In Dixon they have returned to the old days, when the motorist was victimized on every hand.

With the ever-increasing popularity of the automobile, most cities, towns and villages appreciate that it enables more people to come to town and spend their money. These cities, towns and villages have ceased to victimize the motorists and have profited thereby.

Not so with Dixon. There they profit by the trade of the motorist and then victimize him as he returns home.

To appreciate this story, go back twenty years ago to when most villages had obscure little laws designed especially for transient motorists. Then picture the town constable with his large star and important air, the kangaroo court and the unsuspecting motorist. How you have the setting and here is the story:

Sunday was the first pretty Sunday we have had in some time. Naturally every one possessing a gas burning carriage took advantage of the weather. A great many Rochelle residents, unsuspectingly decided to drive to Dixon, take in the show, have a soda or lunch and return home, feeling very grateful that we were neighbors to such a progressive city and very thankful for automobiles as a means of transportation to enable us to spend our money in Dixon.

Everything went as anticipated even the feeling of gratefulness, until the unsuspecting visitors arrived at a certain street corner on their way home. At this corner there is a red light in the center of the street. People who pass this corner daily, say it is very seldom that any one goes to the right of the light, due to the width of streets and the inconvenience situation of the light. To the surprise and consternation of the visitors, after turning this corner to the left of the light, they were stopped, one by one, by two officers, one officer and a helper in civilian clothes. The officer had on a regular policeman's uniform. (Imagine this in a town with uniformed police.) Here the visitors were asked if they did not see the red light. Upon answering

JUDGE IS LENIENT WITH THURM; GIVES HIM ONE SENTENCE

Suspends Five Other Counts of Information Against Man.

County Judge John B. Crabtree exhibited leniency in pronouncing sentence upon Edwin Thurm late Friday afternoon for violating the prohibition law and held him on but one of the six counts contained in the indictment that of possessing intoxicating liquor for which he was sent to the county jail for a period of six months. The other five counts were suspended by the court.

"This is but another case of where the innocent must suffer for the sins of the father," said the judge before pronouncing sentence. "Early this week a case was brought into this court where the father of six small children the oldest being nine years of age, was using three gallons of liquor every two weeks. In that case from the east end of the county, the family have been cared for by the county and in this case the same practice will have to be resorted to. While I believe that in this case, Mrs. Thurm and possibly some of the children have assisted in the work and had a knowledge of the operations the children and wife must suffer and the county must care for them. At the same time, the husband and father admits operating the mill, manufacturing the liquor and selling it, and cannot go unpunished. It is the will of the court that he be confined in the county jail for a period of six months, and at the expiration of this sentence I trust that he and his family will have learned a lesson."

"Brains" of Brewery Combine Not Found

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Danville, Ill., March 22.—The seventh man still is lacking in the trial of the alleged owners of the Mascoutah Brewery, in St. Clair County which started here Friday afternoon in United States District Court. He is Joseph M. McFadden, said to be a resident of Joliet and the "brains" of the brewery outfit. He was indicted with the other six defendants, but has not yet been apprehended by the government.

Asked Chance to Plead

Thurm's wife and son were in the court room at 5 o'clock, he having asked to be permitted to enter a plea of guilty after he had gone into court Friday morning with his attorney H. A. Brooks and secured a continuance until next week. All three were in tears when Judge Crabtree pronounced sentence. Mrs. Thurm expressed her thanks to the court for the leniency shown her husband and family, admitting that she expected a heavy cash fine in addition to the jail sentence.

Sheriff Elliott Risley stated today that he has ten prisoners in the county jail at this time, eight of whom are serving sentences for bootlegging, one for passing worthless checks, and the other for being intoxicated and driving an automobile while in this condition.

DOCTOR VICTIM HER OWN LIFE RELATIVES SAY

Kansas City Woman Penniless and Addict to Drug Habit.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Kansas City, March 22.—Dr. Zoe Wilkins whose premonition of violent death was borne out when she was mysteriously slain here last week, was a victim of her own intrigues, penniless, broken by drugs and insane, according to the story told police by her brothers and sisters.

Police had reconstructed most of the details of the sordid life to which the once young and pretty osteopath had descended after many trials at matrimony, but early today her brothers and sisters, gathered here, completed the story.

They had a long conference last night with Charles Wilkins, the brother who is held in connection with the murder and afterward declared their faith in him.

They agreed that Dr. Wilkins was insane and that there was no foundation for the belief that she was wealthy.

AUTOISTS, SNOW-BOUND, APPEAL TO STATE FOR HELP

Kansas Village is Poor Host to 130 Stranded Tourists There.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Topeka, Kan., March 22.—Stranded at Kendall, Kansas, by blizzards and heavy snows that have swept western Kansas for the past week, 130 automobile tourists, many ill from exposure and without medical aid, today awaited relief promised by state officials.

The plight of the tourists among whom are many women and children, was made known last night when a telegram, asking for assistance, reached the office of Governor Davis. Hamilton county officials immediately were instructed to aid the marooned tourists and the county highway engineer and his staff were ordered to open up the impassable roads.

Kendall, a village of less than 100 population on the Santa Fe trail 30 miles east of the Colorado line, is proving a poor host to the refugees, according to the message signed by W. G. Garrett. The village is without a doctor or drug store. Some are sleeping in school houses, barns and cars, those receiving better accommodations are overcharged, the message states, and adding that no effort was being made to open the roads.

EVERY MAN IN DIXON IS ASKED TO ATTEND MEET

Plans to Be Made at Meeting for C. of C. Membership.

Last Thursday night at the city hall a large gathering of Dixon Boosters met in interest of the Chamber of Commerce. At that meeting of more than a hundred public spirited men, interested in Dixon, it was decided to hold an organization meeting Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the same hall to complete arrangements for the membership drive Tuesday and Wednesday.

It is earnestly desired that every man who attended last Thursday's meeting and all others interested in a bigger and better city will be on hand to take an active part in arranging the campaign for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Never in the history of our city has more earnestness been shown in the Chamber of Commerce; its activities, its reason for existence. Give some of your time, acquaint yourself with its activities and you'll realize the importance of this organization. In other words if you expect to get any good out of any organization, you've got to put some effort and enthusiasm into it.

Make arrangements now to attend Monday night's meeting.

SENATE BODY DON'T KNOW WHAT TO DO

Oil Man Refused to Testify; Oil Committee Seems Baffled

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Will H. Hays flatly denied before the oil committee today that Harry F. Sinclair had given any stock to wipe out a $1,600,000 deficit of the republican national committee after the 1920 campaign.

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Hays identified Joe O'Neil, a former newspaperman, as an employee of his office. Asked if O'Neil had not given the statement to the Times, Hays said he could not have done so as there was no basis for the story.

"It has been testified to before another committee," said Senator Walsh, "that Mr. Sinclair gave certain stocks to wipe out a deficit of the republican national committee. Tell us about it."

"I can't tell you about it," returned Hays. "It is not true."

"You saw a statement in the New York Times that you would testify to such a donation?"

"Yes, but that story is untrue. It is false."

"Please tell us what Mr. Sinclair had to do with making up the deficit," said Senator Walsh.

"I assume it is not the purpose of the committee to go into campaign contributions," Hays returned. "I assume the committee considers that irrelevant as I do. Besides, I am not the source of information now."

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, March 22.—By unanimous vote the oil committee voted today to compel Harry F. Sinclair to the senate for contempt as a result of his refusal to testify further before the committee.

The decision as to the exact procedure will be held in abeyance until the return of Alton Pomeroy and O. J. Roberts, special government counsel in the oil case cases.

While Hays was waiting to testify the committee early today continued its argument over the plea presented by counsel for Harry F. Sinclair in an effort to have the operator excused from the witness stand.

Sinclair with his array of counsel was on hand early and set to chatting with his lawyers while the committee was getting the session under way. Hays came into the room just before Chairman Ladd rapped for order.

Ordered to Stand.

At the outset, Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, read from authorities to show that courts long have recognized the power of legislative bodies to compel the attendance of witnesses, a power denied yesterday by the Sinclair lawyers. The senator said he cited the precedents so that "any doubt that may have arisen in the public mind concerning the power of the committee might be dispelled."

After an hour's discussion, the committee directed Sinclair to take the stand. The vote of the committee against the plea of his counsel was unanimous.

By a vote of 9 to 2 the committee also rejected a motion of Senator Bursum, republican, New Mexico, that Sinclair not be questioned about any matter involved in the court proceedings brought at Cheyenne in the oil case cases. The only senators supporting this motion were Bursum and Cameron, republican, Arizona.

Refused to Testify.

Sinclair refused to testify further. The oil operator said he did not take the position, however, that his answers might tend to incriminate him.

"There is nothing," he said, "in any of the facts or circumstances of the lease of Teapot Dome which does or can incriminate."

Sinclair based his refusal on the ground that any evidence he may possess should be reserved for the courts.

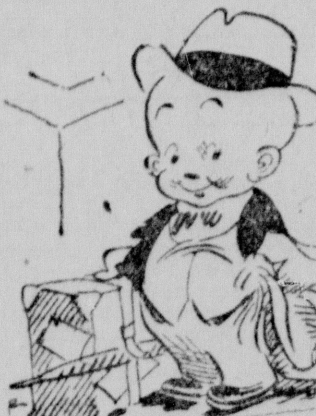

"I shall reserve any evidence I may be able to give," Sinclair said to the committee, "for those courts to which you and your colleagues have deliberately referred all questions of which you had any jurisdiction and shall respectfully decline to answer any questions propounded by your committee."

Events in connection with appointment of special government counsel to proceed with lease litigation were reviewed in the statement which then referred to the fact that the evidence is to be presented before a special grand jury here.

Claims "No Jurisdiction."

Sinclair said he claimed that the committee was "without any jurisdiction to question me further regarding the procurement of the lease or the validity thereof or any fact or circumstances pertaining thereto."

THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER

O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous night,
O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming!

And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there,
O say, does that Star-Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

On the shore dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?

Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected now shines on the stream,
'Tis the Star-Spangled Banner; O long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

O! thus be it ever when freemen shall stand
Between their lov'd homes and the war's desolation—
Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heaven rescued land
Praise the power that hath made and preserved us a nation.

Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto—"In God is our trust";
And the Star-Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Clean Hot Water.

Wash the teapot and coffee pot in clean hot water without soap and wipe dry.

Smoother Mixture.
You will get a smoother mixture when mixing flour and water if you use a fork instead of a spoon.

Boiling Over.
When making fruit tarts of juice fruit mix a little cornstarch with the sugar and this will prevent it from boiling over.

Removes Stains.
Turpentine applied on a flannel cloth will remove the dark stains from a porcelain bathtub.

Pleasant Change.
Use small sausages instead of bacon or pork with baked beans and you will have a pleasant change.

Add Lemon Juice.
Add a few drops of lemon juice to rice while it is cooking. It makes it very white and keeps the grains whole.

Cranberries.
When cooking cranberries, it is well to prepare more than you will use immediately and put some away in jars for later consumption. It goes well with any kind of meat.

Makes Them Dull.
A damp dishtowel makes dull spoons and glasses.

Illinois League of Women Voters

GET OUT THE VOTE!

In Lee County, Illinois, at the Presidential election of 1920 58 per cent of the citizens voted. At this time, $434 men were eligible to vote. 71 per cent of this number voted. There were $205 women eligible to vote and only 44 per cent went to the polls.

GET OUT THE VOTE is the slogan of the women of the State of Illinois for the primaries to be held on April 8. One and one-third of the voting citizens of this state did not cast a ballot in the last presidential election. The purpose of this campaign is to find these votes and put them on the map.

Twenty leading state women's organizations and many local groups are co-operating in this campaign to bring out a record vote on April 8. Among them are:

Illinois Republican Women's Clubs, Illinois Woman's Democratic Club, Women's Section of the Farmer Labor Party of Illinois.

Socialist Party, Illinois Women's Bar Association, Illinois League of Women Voters, Illinois State Teachers' Association.

The Parent-Teachers' Association, Illinois Graduate Nurses' Association, Young Women's Christian Association.

Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Woman's City Club of Chicago, Delphian Society.

Christian Citizenship League, Alliance Business and Professional Women's Club.

This campaign is patriotic—not partisan. The object is to bring men and women to the polls. Less than one-half of the women citizens in the entire state voted in the last presidential election. The men did better. They polled a seventy-five per cent vote.

Civil-minded women of the state feel that the task of getting out a large vote at the coming elections belongs chiefly to them for two reasons.

First, said Mrs. Kenneth R. Rich, First Vice President of the Illinois League of Women Voters, "First, because of the low vote in 1920 and secondly because many of the issues both National and State are of especial interest to women."

Mrs. Rich goes on to say, "One of the main points we are trying to impress upon all women is that the Primary is the real Party election—the final choosing of the men and women who are to represent them at the General Election in November. The one chance to get the best candidates on each party ticket is in the Spring Primary."

For the next three weeks the GET OUT THE VOTE message will be carried to all citizens of the State by radio, speakers and by precinct canvassers urging them to go to the primaries and vote.

C. C. Circle Had Meeting Friday

The C. C. Circle of the Christian church held a meeting yesterday afternoon with Mrs. W. W. Moore, 1322 W. Third street, and assisted by Mrs. C. J. Finley entertained twenty-five ladies of the Circle, and two guests.

This frock exploits that plainness and simplicity that is attained only by the most sophisticated designers. The collar treatment and the embroidery about the low waistline are very smart. The material gives the effect of being quilted satin.

Sterling Girl and Dixon Man Wed

Miss Grace Campbell, one of Sterling's popular young people, and John G. Buchanan of Dixon were united in marriage at 5 o'clock on Thursday, March 20, at Geneva, Ill., by the Rev. Northing, who performed the ring ceremony. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wyrwanger of Dixon. The bride's mother, Mrs. E. A. Kruse, was also present.

Mrs. Buchanan was attired in a pretty gown of sand colored Canton crepe with hat in the same shade. She wore a beautiful necklace of pearls and carried a bouquet of pale pink roses. The maid-of-honor wore a gown of blue taffeta with a spring hat of similar material.

Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan will make their home temporarily with the latter's step-father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kruse of Sterling. Mr. Buchanan is employed in the shoe factory in Dixon. Both are well known and have hosts of friends in the two cities.

NEW GIANT STAR BESTED BY FABER WHITE SOX'S VET

Chicago, March 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Wayland Dean, recruit pitcher with the New York Giants and one of the greatest pitchers in the American Association last season received his first jolt of the season yesterday when he was pitted against Red Faber, veteran ace of the Chicago White Sox twirling staff, who made his maiden start of the season. Dean who was purchased by the Giants from Louisville for $50,000 last winter had pitched 12 innings in practice games at Sarasota without allowing a man to reach first. When he faced the White Sox at Winter Haven yesterday he was greeted with two singles in the first inning. The White Sox attack continued with the veteran Collins poling three hits. Willie Kamm broke up the game in the 10th for a 5-4 victory. It was the second game of the season by the Giants and White Sox.

Dean ranked second in the American Association with a record of 3.27 earned runs per game with 21 victories and one defeat. Tom Sheehan of St. Paul topped the pitchers.

Bad Day for Veterans

It was an off day for two veterans playing with the Boston Braves. Jess Barnes, former twirler of the New York Giants, was pummeled off the mound in the second when he faced the Philadelphia Athletics and Casey Stengel, hero of the Giants in the world series against the Yanks last season, experienced the greatest difficulty in trying to catch the ball in the outfield, being charged with three muffs. The Phillies won the game.

Joe Hauser, whose circuit clout gave the Philadelphia Athletics a victory over Birmingham Thursday, failed to drive the ball out of the infield yesterday in a game with Howard College at Montgomery. The Athletics won the game however.

Schang Breaks a Rib

Wallie Schang, veteran catcher of the Yanks will be unable to practice for more than a week because of a broken rib and "Babe" Ruth was unable to don his uniform yesterday. He has "waking influence." The home run king expected to get back in action today.

The Cleveland Indians, balked by rain since Wednesday, were expected to loosen up against the Brooklyn Dodgers at Clear Water today.

George Sisler, manager of the St. Louis Browns has two youngsters, George Grant and George Lyons, groomed for the game with Mobile today. Ray Kolp also is ready to ascend the hill.

Walter Johnson, Washington's premier pitcher and dean of American League hurlers, will open his 18th season for the Senators today when he faces the St. Louis Cardinals with hopes of keeping Washington's slate clean. The Senators by defeating Milwaukee yesterday, registered their third consecutive victory.

All of the regulars of the Cincinnati Reds except Eddie Roush, will be in the lineup when they play the Chicago White Sox at Winter Haven today. Roush developed a "charley horse" that will keep him off the field for a couple of days. Luque, Donohue and Sheehan are slated to pitch.

TWO CUBS INJURED

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, March 22.—The services of Arnold Stutz, Cuban center fielder, will be lost to his team probably until the season opens. Surgeons yesterday found a tipped bone in his ankle and wrenching muscles of the leg, received in practice game at the Catalina Island camp Monday.

OBITUARY

NATHAN A. CORTRIGHT

Nathan Alonzo Cortright, a son of Isaac and Mollie Cortright, was born in Luzern county, Penn., on the 27th day of September, 1852. He was next to the youngest of a family of ten, nine boys and one girl. On the 6th of April, 1862, the family came to Illinois and located near Dixon, Ill. Here his boyhood years were passed and here on the 9th of December, 1873 he was united in marriage to Katie A. Burket of Dixon Township, Lee Co., Ill. The happy young couple went to house-keeping on the old Cortright farm where they remained until they moved to Dixon, March 1, 1908. After Mrs. Cortright's death in September of 1922 the home was broken up and he made his abode with the children. To Mr. and Mrs. Cortright six children were born all of whom survive to mourn his passing. Mr. Cortright was a home man. His home life was unusually congenial. However he had time for what he conceived to be his duty as a citizen. For 12 years he served as supervisor of Dixon township during which time the old court house was removed and the new court house built. For six years, under the superintendency of L. F. Edwards, he was chairman of the educational committee.

For 18 years he was clerk of the school board of which he was a director for 21 years. For many years he was one of the managers of the Palmyra Insurance Co. Mr. Cortright was a good man, a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and a devoted believer. His faith in God and his confidence in the future was an inspiration to those who were near him.

Then I would rather have a rosebud
While I am here to see
Than have the costliest flowers
Placed on my coffin for me.

I would rather have a kindly smile
From hearts forever true
Than tears shed round my lifeless form
When earth I've bade adieu.

I would rather have the kindest words
Than be said to me
Than flattered when my heart is still
And life has ceased to be.

Then give me a rosebud
A rosebud pink or red
I'd rather have just one today
Than ten million when I'm dead.

This was one of his favorite poems. For some years his health had not been very good but after the death of Mrs. Cortright his decline became very noticeable. He was ready and prepared for it. He has given instructions concerning the funeral that he might not inconvenience his friends.

For the past six months or more he had been practically confined to bed and for a month it had been apparent that the end was near. He gradually grew weaker until on Wednesday at 3:00 a. m. his spirit was released and he was at rest. His age was 71 years, 5 months, 22 days. The members of the immediate family who are left to mourn his loss are:

Four sons: John Wilbur of Dixon, Ill.; Charles Nathan of San Francisco, Calif.; Shelby Miller of Dixon, Ill.; Clyde Clifford of Dixon, Ill. Two daughters: Nellie Burket, Mrs. Robert M. Wrigley, of Peoria, Ill.; Cecile, Mrs. C. Roland Clothier of Polo, Ill. Five grandchildren: Miss Queta Cortright of Dixon, Ill.; Thelma Cortright of San Francisco, Calif.; Clifford Wrigley of Peoria, Ill.; Marian Clothier of Polo, Ill.; Robert Clothier of Polo, Ill.

Two brothers: E. D. Cortright of Sandwich, Ill.; Frank S. Cortright, of Waukena, Neb.

In addition to these there are scores of people who will sincerely mourn modest hotels. Prices in Switzerland have returned to somewhere near normal. In Central Europe living is especially cheap for any one possessing American dollars.

When all is said, though, the cheapest travel
of all is cruising over American highways
in the little old car, sleeping in the auto tent
by the roadside and cooking one's meals on one's own camp stove. And these is just as much worth seeing here as anywhere, if you've never seen it.

IN THE STATE SERVICE.

So satisfactory has been the service of Secretary of State L. L. Emmerson that no one even cared to file a petition to run against him in the coming primary.

This is certainly a compliment to him for it indicates general recognition of the high quality of his public service. Illinois needs men of this kind in its offices.

Another candidate, who can be put in the same class from the standpoint of integrity
and ability is O. N. Custer, of Galesburg, who is out for the nomination for state treasurer. Mr. Custer has not held a state office but if he is elected, as he should be, he will demonstrate such fitness for public service that the time will come when the people will show the same attitude toward him that is now manifested towards Mr. Emmerson.—
Kewanee Daily Star-Courier.

FRED E. STERLING.

Hon. Fred E. Sterling, Lieutenant Governor of Illinois, is a candidate for re-election
and his name will be on the Republican primary ballot on April 8.

Fred Sterling, who was born in Dixon and who now is editor of the Rockford Register-Gazette, is a man of great ability and high standing, and, in spite of the attacks made upon him by the Brundage wing of the party,
he will be renominated by the Republicans of Illinois.

The voters of Dixon and Lee County have confidence in Fred Sterling and we believe they will demonstrate that confidence in their votes on primary day.

VOTE FOR RATHBONE.

Henry R. Rathbone, Congressman-at-Large for the State of Illinois, is a candidate for re-nomination at the April primaries. Mr. Rathbone is a Republican of the highest type and should have the unqualified support of the people of this state. He stands for the finest principles of the American people and he is a real credit to Illinois.

Two years ago Mr. Rathbone was nominated by a plurality of 80,000 votes and elected by more than 245,000 votes. He has been active in Republican politics in Illinois for thirty years.

The first session of congress he had an opportunity of attending was not held until December, last year, and it seems only fair to re-elect Mr. Rathbone to that important office. He has made a splendid impression at Washington. Mr. Rathbone is the kind of man we want to keep in politics in Illinois
and in Washington.

DRIVERS.

Accused of endangering life by reckless driving, a man in Marlboro, Mass., is sentenced never to drive an auto again. If the same sort of justice were applied to all, at least one driver in 10 would have his car
taken away from him.

The time is not far off when no one will be allowed to drive a car unless he passes tests for sanity, eyesight and caution. Many madmen drive cars, including ones temporarily crazed by liquor.

CHEAPER TRAVEL.

This bids fair to be another big year for travel—possibly the biggest yet. Americans have money, or can usually find money, for touring. Conditions are more settled abroad and, what is still more important perhaps,
prices are lower.

Travel may almost be called cheap again.
Ship rates are down, thanks to keen competition. Accommodations aboard a comfortable transatlantic liner may be obtained for as low as $120. It is possible to take a six-week trip to Europe for $470, which is only a little more than $10 a day for everything.
Room and board in first-class Paris hotels are aid to run from $5 to $8 a day, with tolerable accommodations for considerably less in more

MUST HAVE MADE 'EM LAUGH.

It takes a remarkable act to draw the applause of the public after the great performances of the political acrobats during the last few weeks. But there will be no denial of the claim of the California democrats to headliner honors for their great contortionist act,
concluding their own recent political vaudeville.

The state central committee, in a single session, succeeded in kicking E. L. Doheny out of the party and in recommending that Wm.
G. McAdoo be made the party's candidate for president.

Mr. Doheny was fired as second vice-president of the committee because he was charged with being one of the "ring-leaders in the alleged corruption at Washington." And Mr.
McAdoo, presumably, was endorsed as the man to bring the alleged corruption to an end. The Doheny-McAdoo skit, perfectly played by the Californians, should send the audience home laughing.

INSTALLMENTS.

An auto salesmap tells us 95 per cent of cars are sold "on time"—the installment system, so much a months. Sounds exaggerated, but it is.

A convention of lumber dealers discusses selling materials for building homes on the same installment plan. This would solve the problem of second mortgages. But debt is debt, no matter where the money is borrowed, whether owed to a financial organization or a builder. The burden would merely be shifted from one shoulder to another.

SHOWS ARE BETTER.

Theatrical producers think a man wants to go to a theater and check his brain with his hat, claims Vivian Kellems, lecturer.

Men, however, do not cut much of a figure in this problem. Theatrical productions usually depend for success or failure largely on women. Wives and sweethearts compose most of the matinee audiences, and men consult for their choice of evening theatricals.

With the exception of sex plays, the standard of theatrical production is rising steadily. If you doubt it, recall the childish trash that made melodrama audiences howl 20 or more years ago.

Ten Senate investigations are now under way with half a dozen more proposed. And still the Senate is supposed to be a legislative body.

The following slogan has been suggested for Mr. McAdoo's campaign: "What's the matter with McAdoo? He's oiled right!"

And of course a good deal of this Teapot
brew has resulted in nothing but letting off steam.

NO. 7—MRS. CUCKOO IS OFFENDED

"Where are you, Mrs. Cuckoo? Aren't you at home?"

"Do climb up and see what is the matter with the town clock," begged Mister Fuzz Wuzz of Doofunny Land.
"What's wrong with it?" asked Nancy.

"I don't know, but the cuckoo hasn't been out for four hours and nobody knows the time. Mrs. Cut-out said she didn't have the breakfast dishes done when her husband came home for lunch."

"Come on, Nancy, we'll borrow the ladder from the Humpty Dumpty Circus clown," said Nick.

"So they got the ladder and up they went and peeped inside the cuckoo clock."

"Where are you, Mrs. Cuckoo?
Aren't you at home?"

"Yes," answered the cuckoo from a dark corner. "But I'm mad."

"What are you mad about?" asked
Nancy.

"Well, I'll tell you," said the cuckoo.
"For years and years I've had it
all my own way and I've worked faithfully. But what happens? Instead of getting my reward, they put an im-poster in my place to mock me. Every time I go out and call the hour, he jumps out of a little door, too, and I know he's making fun of me."

"You must be crazy," said Nick.
"There isn't another bird anywhere near. There isn't another bird in Doofunny Land except the cut-out parrot."

"Is the parrot?" asked Nancy.
"Parents aren't any too polite and do mock people sometimes."

"No, it isn't the parrot!" declared
the cuckoo. "A silly and has gotten me mixed up a lot of times by her cackling, but she is a good-hearted soul. No, I'll tell you what it is. It's the dog that lives in that doghouse."

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT,
CARE OF THE SECRET
DRAWER.

You do not know, dear little Marquise, how wonderful it seems to be home again, to be among my own possessions; to open this little drawer where the utmost secrets of my heart are laid; to know that no one in all the world except you has access to them.

Jack's mother was quite curious about this dear old desk and wanted to know if I had found the secret drawer that she always knew was somewhere enclosed within it.

I evaded the answer for I knew that if I told her I had found it, if she ever visited us, she would want to look into it and you know, dear little Marquise, that you and I could never allow that.

I wonder if your kindly lover had a mother, little Marquise. I wonder if you had trouble with trying to make yourself agreeable to her.

I have been down to visit Jack's mother and for his sake I tried to do my very best, but, oh, it was so hard, little Marquise. For at least twenty-five years, if not longer, Mrs.
Prescott, Sr., has been buried in her ancestral home in a little New England town and most of that time,
like the Chinese, she has devoted herself to her ancestors. I guess, for she certainly talked very little about anything else.

This was particularly obnoxious to me because she kept lamenting the fact that my darling baby, little Jack,
had no ancestors to speak of.

Of course I knew that little Jack's

Giant Tunnels Under Hudson River
for Jersey-Manhattan Motor Traffic

Tube Linings Will Contain 115,000 Tons of Iron and Steel
Total Cost $42,000,000

THE newest marvels of tun-neling, the new vehicular tubes beneath the Hudson River, which will allow motorists
to go from Jersey City directly into the heart of New York City, are now progressing rapidly.

When finished the tunnels will connect New Jersey and New York
with two huge tubes, twenty-nine
and a half feet each in diameter,
each accommodating two lines
of traffic and each having an area three times that of the old
"Hudson River Tunnels." Spaces are reserved at top and bottom for ventilation. The tubes will contain a compartment for fire apparatus and other safety devices.

The tubes are built of ring sections composed of fourteen cast iron plates or segments, each weighing 2,300 pounds.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation
is fabricating for the tunnel 107, 000 tons of iron segments and 7,000 tons of steel segments. 105,000
tons of these have been completed and shipped or made ready for shipment from the Bethlehem shops.

The bore for the tunnels from the New York side is through rock, and progresses a ring a day. The Jersey side is river silt and work moves ahead at the rate of six rings a day. Three giant steel caissons were floated up the bay from Staten Island. One double shaft is located on the New York
side and two single shafts on the New Jersey side. These will be the river ventilation
shafts and the tubes will pass through them like threads through

(Left) One of Great 29 1/2 foot Rings Which Will Line New Tunnels.
(Right) Ring Showing Size of First Hudson Tunnels.

a needle. The tubes, in fact, have already pierced the north calsson
on an open street. Traffic will be on the Jersey side and so accurate
is the work of boring that there was only one-half an inch deviation
when the bore reached the cement work.

When passing through the silt,
the progress is sometimes made solely by the power of giant 44-inch, 200-ton steel jacks, which drive the shield forward relentlessly.

The total length of the proposed tunnels will be about 9,250 feet,
and their cost, according to the latest estimates will run to $42, 000,000. The ventilation and fire control systems are adapted to every conceivable condition. In case a fire should break out, it would be handled the same as and with no more danger than a fire
already pierced the north calsson
on an open street. Traffic will be strictly regulated with fast and slow lines of vehicles.

Just what effect the new tunnels
will have on New York's already tremendous traffic congestion is impossible to predict, but it is believed that the ease of entrance to the metropolis from the mainland
may allow a reduction in the wholesale prices of some commodities. At present there are no means other than ferries for the passage of vehicular traffic across the Hudson River south of Albany. Booth and Flinn of New York are the contractors of the tunnel which is being built under the joint supervision of the tunnel
commissions of New York and
New Jersey.

Your Health
by Dr. C. C. Robinson

MIXED DIET

There is every opportunity in the world for a healthy satisfactory mixed diet.

First, learn the real quantity of food that is needed to nourish your body properly. Do not eat more than the necessary amount.

Learn how many calories (or heat
measures for energy the body requires.
Have at least 15 per cent of the total amount required in protein food.
You remember the different kinds of foods and the work each accomplishes
for the body—proteins, fats and carbohydrates.

Don't eat the same foods every day.
This is all right for a while, when on a severe diet, but for satisfactory
results, a change in program is necessary.

For the proteins, change the necessary amount of meat about a quarter pound daily for adults, in order to facilitate assimilation, and balance the daily change in both proteins and fats.

In breads, corn bread, muffins and pancakes, always change as often as possible. This kind of food, with the varieties of green vegetables and fruits, gives necessary third of food supply.

For the remaining portion, which will supply the last third of the content, remember the glass of milk,
some kind of cheese, an egg or some kind of beans.

ATTENTION MR. CAR OWNER

DEAR SIR:

There is hardly a motorist who hasn't at some time or other in his experience had a Battery Dealer attempt to sell him a Battery by representing it as the fastest seller in town.

More attempts are probably made to sell Batteries by playing to the motorist's alleged weakness for "crowd of buyers" than by any other known method of selling.

The experienced Motorist, of course, refuses to surrender his individual judgment to "crowd" or "mass of whatever size."

Too often he has seen the result of accepting opinions at their face value without first finding out what they are based on.

And you will find him going more and more to the dealer who has something to offer in support of his Batteries other than "crowds of buyers" and "numbers of sales."

The opinion in favor of Globe Batteries is not based solely on the number of them in use.

Great as that number is, it is due to something besides clever arguments.

Thousands of Motorists today are putting up with second choice Batteries because forced production is inconsistent with standard of quality.

The Globe Electric Company's aim has been the building a Battery first and a market afterwards, thinking of the individual user instead of the number of Sales.

If the time ever comes when Globe Batteries can be supplied to all, or nearly all, of the people who want them, they will still have more to recommend them than merely the largest following.

Yours truly,

MAKING IT HARD FOR BANK CROOKS

How the Nation's Bankers Are Banded Together in War on Crime—The Great Crook Trap and the Way It Works.

By JOHN OAKWOOD

The slick gentry who have been wont to walk into banks and mesmerize paying tellers into giving them good cash for worthless checks have recently become aware of the fact that their operations are daily growing more difficult. Crooks who have operated with apparent immunity for years have suddenly found themselves caught in the meshes of what amounts to a nation wide crook trap.

To show how effectively this is now working, one of the biggest figures among the worthless check operators, a man who claims to have defrauded dozens of banks and realized more than $300,000 from his operations, recently fell into the toils of the trap. Realizing that he was hopelessly caught, he made a complete confession.

This trap is conducted by the Protective Department of the American Bankers Association, which includes in its membership more than 22,000 banks that are thus leagued in a perpetual warfare against the army of bank crooks scattered throughout the nation.

A Dramatic Arrest

A dramatic illustration of the workings of the association's detective department was recently staged in Buffalo, N. Y., resulting in the sudden downfall of a pair of check swindlers and terminating a year's successful operations in some fifteen cities in various sections of the country.

The pair began their operations in Buffalo in the middle of January, one of them appearing at the special savings account window of a bank there. He presented a counter check on the bank for $75.60, together with a deposit slip filled in for $20.60. He also presented a second deposit slip for $3, proffering with it $3 in currency. He told the teller that he wanted to deposit the two items, that is, $3 in cash and $20.60 out of the check, to the credit of his wife, explaining that he had forgotten to bring her book but would return with it later. His cash and the check were accepted, totaling $78.60. From this sum his wife's supposed account was credited with $23.60, the total of the two deposit slips, and he was given $55 cash in change.

After the man left the bank the teller became suspicious due to his prolonged failure to return as he had promised with his wife's deposit book. On investigation the check he had left was found to be worthless. The bank communicated with the local detective office of the association, giving a complete description of the man.

The Alarm is Given

Later that same day the detective office received another report from a second bank that it had been similarly defrauded by a man answering the description given by the first bank. Steps were at once taken to set a trap for him should he attempt further operations. All surrounding banks were warned that he was in the vicinity and a complete description was given them of his appearance and of his mode of operating. They were advised to have their tellers and guards on the lookout and to communicate at once by telephone with the detective office in case anyone appeared in their lobbies who seemed to answer to the description of the man wanted. They were also instructed to take steps to detain him in the bank.

Similar quick action of the bank crook trap in Boston terminated the career of another check forger who had been operating successfully in the New England states. The banks which he had victimized notified the American Bankers Association with the result that all other banks in the territory were warned against him and were put on guard. Therefore, when he walked into a Boston bank to continue his operations he walked into a trap as he was immediately recognized and nabbed by the officers there.

These are only two instances of many that have recently taken place in various parts of the country. Some of these arrests have brought into the toils of the authorities some of the slickest operators in this line in the country and from them have been learned the details of the way bank crooks operate, placing in the hands of the detective department the means to put banks on guard against further depredations.

THE LADY AND THE LAMP SHADE

The vogue for lamps and lamp shades of all dimensions, varieties and colors may have inspired this undeniably smart costume, whose flaring tunic, cuffs, and hat certainly remind one pleasantly of these delightful modern accompaniments to the living room. An indication of the line for next winter, say the fashion experts, is seen in the tunic wideleg at the bottom. To those of us who find the present winter still a quite definite fact it would seem as though the arbiters of the mode work so far ahead that they are likely to meet themselves on the way back. At any rate, advanced as it may be in its style forecast, this dress is very comfortably adapted to immediate wear, with its closely fitting sleeves which protect against the last winds of winter, and its cheerful printed design heralding the advent of spring. This ensemble achieves distinction by combining plain and printed crepe de chine. The design of the printed part of the costume illustrates several of the newest trends. It is a modernized floral pattern, handled in the barre or barred treatment, the design running across the fabric in wide bands. And, by the way, Henri Creange, art director of Cheney Brothers, tells us that if a silk is not barre it is not 1924. This treatment of the design, which is also called "travers," (literally across) is very popular in Paris, because it lends itself to being cut into the long scarves which are used to trim or are worn with the newest gowns.

MISS ALVA

BY DOUGLAS GRANT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sallie Peck, employee of the Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrel with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Curran. He calls on her at Ma Brennan's with whom she lives, but leaves the house when Sallie tells him that she never wants to see him again.

That night a terrific rain storm comes up and Sallie volunteers to bring from the line in the backyard some hand-embroidered linen being done up by Ma Brennan. As the girl starts down the yard, a crash shakes the earth and something strikes her a blow on the head.

When Sallie regains consciousness she finds herself in strange surroundings. She is in a wonderful room, a French maid calls her Mademoiselle Alva, and tells her that Madam is in shortly to see her. Sallie is mystified.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Ma Brennan! The Fair Deal!—Mike! Sallie sat bolt upright in bed stifling a scream. What in the world had happened to her? A host of recollections flashed across her mind but soft footsteps were approaching outside the door and she slipped back upon the pillow and closed her eyes.

She heard a slight tinkle as a tray was set down upon the stand, then there came the soft rustle of the window draperies and a brighter light shot across her lids and after that the footsteps approached her bed again.

Sallie could feel the hot flush which had mounted in her cheeks but she forced herself to open her eyes once more and meet the gaze of those inscrutable ones.

"The chocolate, Miss Alva." The maid helped her sit up and rearranged her pillows. "Madame will be here in a moment; she is enchanted that you have recovered consciousness so soon."

"So I've been sick, have I?" Sallie sipped her chocolate and eyed her companion over the rim of the cup. "But yes, mademoiselle! You do not recall? It was the shock to the head." The woman was smoothing the lace coverlet on the bed. "Do you feel nothing, Miss Alva?"

"I've got a fierce pain here," Sallie raised one hand to her head and the cup would have dropped from the other had the maid not taken it from her. She had encountered bandages—bandages which fitted down like a cap almost to her ears! Surprise overruled caution and she demanded: "What—what is it? How long—?"

"Three days, mademoiselle, since we have returned to New York from the hospital in that place. But you must not talk now. You will have no more chocolate!" Sallie shook her head dumbly and there was no simulation in the limpness with which for the second time she sank back on the pillow.

The woman bathed her face and hands, brushed back the soft, golden hair about her forehead and then removed the tray, pausing for a moment in the doorway, but Sallie made no effort to detain her. She wanted to be alone, to think.

There had been the quarrel with Mike and the long, sleepless night with the hateful face of Mame Dorsey floating before her; then the dim, rainy dawn and Ma Brennan's worry about the linen. She had gone out herself to the back yard to bring it in off the lines just as the fast express came thundering along on the tracks lying beyond the rickety fence and then there had been a terrible crash—!

Slowly, painfully the girl's mind placed together the last conscious impressions and now complete realization rushed upon her. The switch there at the junction only the length of two houses away, where the milk train was over-due and Hughie Robbins' pa drinking again! There had been a wreck and most of it had plied on her there in the back yard between the lines of wet clothes! She must have been mistaken for somebody else, but why had Ma Brennan let them take her away?

"My darling child!" There was a rustle of silk, a wave of the same perfume which had greeted her waking senses and two arms clasped her in a tense embrace. Alva, do you know me? There's someone that you had come to yourself at last! Alva, speak to your mother!"

Sallie's lids lifted slowly and she beheld a large figure in lavender draperies and a handsome face with steely gray eyes close to her own. "Mother," indeed! There was something in this that she didn't understand but if they were playing some game—? Sallie grinned faintly.

"I—I got hurt!" "Oh, my dear, there was a terrible wreck! But do you recall nothing of it?" The visitor seated herself on a low chair by the bed and took one of the girl's hands in both of hers. "We were on the train returning from French Lick Springs, asleep in our drawing room at the end of the car when the crash came! I shall spare you the horror of it for I, too, was buried unconscious in the debris, but oh, Alva! My thankfulness when I came to myself in the hospital and found you there beside me, even when the doctors told me—!"

She paused shuddering and Sallie watching her closely saw that her face had whitened beneath its coating of cosmetics while a bagged line appeared about the narrow, firm lips. There wasn't any acting in this! Sallie started to speak and then checked herself suddenly; that maid had seemed to recognize her, also.

"Wasn't she—?" The girl's quick brain caught at the name which the older woman had used and in unconscious mimicry she imitated the accent. "Wasn't—Theresa—there, too?"

"Ah, yes, dear child. I see you are beginning to remember! She was in her berth just beyond our door and threw clear of the wreck age, being merely bruised. But you have not asked about anyone else!"

There was a half-playful chiding note in her tones which seemed forced, somehow, and Sallie gave a little start. She'd better watch her step now!

"Who else was with us?" she asked carefully.

Why, your cousin, Wheeler! He was in the car ahead and fearfully shaken up but he rescued you, Alva! He saved your life!" She gestured toward the dressing table and for the first time Sallie noticed that there stood upon it the photograph of a man. It was encased in a large, jeweled frame and the features were not very distinct in the subdued light, but he appeared to be youngish, with a long nose and something unpleasant about his eyes. Her own came back to the face bending above her and she saw that she was being studied in turn with a curious intensity.

"He—saved my life?" repeated Sallie and a mental picture rose before her of what she must have looked like in that sleazy kimono, all tangled up in Ma Brennan's wash. The little smile which quirked the corners of her mouth faded quickly, however, at the suddenly commanding tones of the older woman's voice.

"Yes, you really must thank him as he deserves as soon as you are able to see him! I don't know what I should have done without him! It was he who arranged to have a special sent to meet us at the next station and a motor ambulance to take us out of that wretched hospital within an hour after I had regained consciousness. He would not believe for a moment what the doctors told us, and he has been so devoted!"

"Has he?" Sallie's own tone was noncommittal. "What did the doctors say?" "You suffered a very severe concussion, Alva, and it was feared that when you did recover consciousness you might not be quite yourself for a time." The words fell slowly from the older woman's lips. "The specialist whom Doctor Qualiere called in was of the opinion that your memory might be impaired and you would not be able at first to recognize any of us! Dear child, if you were my own instead of a stepdaughter my fears could not have been greater."

So that was what these two were trying to put over! Sallie raised her hand to her swimming head.

"Maybe that doctor had the right dope," she murmured, "I don't seem to remember any of this line you've been giving me."

"Of course not, Alva, you have only just waked up, you know." The woman rose. "I will send Miss Tidmarsh to you now, for you must rest."

She bent, kissed the girl's forehead and turning, left the room. Clenching her fists and catching her lower lip sharply between her teeth she waited until the momentary weakness passed and her vision cleared, then rising she tottered over to the dressing table to have a closer look at Cousin Wheeler.

It was not reassuring. He was younger than she had thought, under thirty maybe, but his forehead sloped straight back to his thin, slick hair, the close-set eyes did not meet one squarely and the long nose drooped over a slightly little mustache that gave him a sneer. What there was of his chin slid down into his collar, and although that was perfectly fitting and the pear-shaped dull pin—a pearl, she guessed—certainly looked the goods in his tie, Sallie shrugged as she replaced the photograph upon the dressing table.

She was turning away when her own reflection in the triple mirror met her gaze and she paused with a little catch in her breath. She had never seen quite so much of herself from all sides at once and that elegant lady gown didn't help to hide her scrawiness, but that wasn't what mattered: it was the drawn, ghostly face more pointed than ever and the big rings around her dull, sunken eyes! Why, even Ma Brennan would hardly know her!

Moving slowly over to the window she drew the blue side drapery across her breast and then parted the filmy curtains to peer outward and down. Sunlight striking on the glass of a passing motor winked sharply up into her eyes but when it passed she saw a broad avenue not so far below her with a double stream of wonderful cars and big green buses rolling along though only a subdued rumble reached her ears. On the opposite side was a smooth, tree-lined walk with carved stone benches in a row and a low wall behind them while beyond that again there stretched what seemed to be a great park with a soft-looking dirt road and little winding paths between masses of trees just getting feathery with buds.

"CHURCH NIGHT" AT POLO FINE IN EVERY WAY

Happy Time Was Had By Methodists Wednesday Evening.

Polo—Wednesday evening was "church night" at the Methodist church about 200 being present. A scrumptious supper was enjoyed by all at 6:30. After the supper, a debate whether women should vote was given by the members, Joe Brooks, Bert Slater and John Hurdle on the affirmative and Mesdames Robert Bellows, James Davis and Mary Tibbitt on the negative. The latter side won the debate. After the debate, Miss Iva Barnes gave a musical reading, "My Daddy" accompanied by Miss Frances Franks. This was followed by a chorus composed of members of Mrs. John Tanner's class, the selection was "Whispering Hope." Mrs. H. C. Brown's class had charge of the games.

John Heckman attended a funeral at Lena Wednesday.

Charles W. Baker of Monroe Center candidate for the state legislature, was a Polo caller Thursday.

Mrs. Blanche Ackerson of Haldane spent Wednesday evening in Polo and attended church night at the Methodist church.

Clayton Travis suffered an attack of appendicitis Thursday and was taken to Dixon for an examination.

Miss Lizzie Slater has returned from Williamsport, Ind., where she spent the winter with her brother.

James Valle of Dixon spent the fore part of the week with his sister, Mrs. Henry Cavanaugh.

Mrs. Margaret Savage and son, Jack, went to Chicago Wednesday morning where they will spend the remainder of the week. While in Chicago, Mrs. Savage will finish her course in hair dressing at the Chicago Hair Dressing parlors.

Alvord Graeff of Malta, grandson of Mrs. Anna Waterbury and also a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Graeff of this city is ill with scarlet fever.

STRAIGHT DOPE BENNY ON THE RADIO

(The gifted sport philosopher finds optimism grows in bunches under the hot southern sun.)

Mohile, Ala.—Well, folks, I'll say
this much, it looks like a great year for the Polyantha Party. I never saw so much optimism as exists in these southern training camps. All the big league managers are broken out with it, like an agitated angle worm with the wiggles. From what I have been able to find out so far it looks like the next world series will be one of those round robin things with all sixteen clubs taking a left hook at the swag.
All the boys admit they have improved like a flapper's morals on a desert island, and the worst they expect,
even leaving room for sudden deaths
among the pitchers, is first place by July 4.

Mr. Huggins thinks his Yankees can slip back seventeen kilometers and still make the rest of the American League look slower than a check from home. Winning championships has got to be a habit with Mr. Huggins and he has no more idea of reforming than Frank Vanderlip has of developing a sense of discretion. Just to prove to the gaping public that there is nothing wrong with his eyes
George the Sider says he sees a top berth for his Brownies, and even Connie Mack, who hasn't had a winner since burlesque girls wore red silk tights, is going around sobbing because October and its accompanying thrills are so far away. I haven't any set notions as to what constitutes the millennium, but what can beat a couple of pennant races with nothing but winners?

However, the hairpin in the married man's sedan, as far as this spring optimism is concerned, is that it doesn't mean anything, if as much. Even the Phillies look like a ball club on opening day in their new bungalow aprons.
Hope may spring eternal in the manly buzz but it fairly gurgles in the spring under the warm, motherly influence of a hot, mellow sun. What passes as a cheery note of confidence in March usually turns out to be a brimming bowl of the old apple sauce
in July. Bill Bryan couldn't talk himself into the White House and base hits still go farther in baseball than steam-heated conversation.

Next week Straight Dope Benny, at the request of no one in general, will speak on the merits of the reversible toupee.)

The CALL OF THE TAME

Hal
Cochran's
DAILY
POEM

He's just a scroot that wandered up and parked right at our door. This happened, say, about three months ago. Perhaps a tramp for many days but not one any more. He's found a home—a fact he seems to know.

Dad calls him Pete; I don't know
why, but Pete's the name he's picked,
while mother always calls him Flip.
For short, The baby just says "bla bla"
when her tiny hand is licked and brother Bill refers to him as Sport.

The kids around our neighborhood,
who feed him scraps and such, will summon him with names of any kind.
The milkman calls him Fuzzy and the mailman calls him Dutch. He takes them all and doesn't seem to mind.

It's Pete, come here," and "Flip, lie down." This tramp dog does as told.
There's nothing in a name to him, it seems. Whenever people call him with a title, new or old, he answers as he wags his tail and beams.

Which makes a person wonder—is this canine really dumb, or is he rather human after all? He gets his bits of pleasure when the looks of kindness come and he answers when there's friendship in the call.

Oakwood Memorial Mausoleum

It is to the State of Kansas to whom we are indebted for a campaign of research, national in its scope, in an effort to determine the type of construction and the materials from which to build and to choose the most perfect method of sanitation for burial vaults. After a careful study of their findings, it is evident that the community mausoleum is best designed to suit the needs of a community for the reason that it gives the utmost of security at far less cost, due to the fact that, along with the most modern engineering practice, which is carefully put into its construction, it carries a fund of sufficient amount, the income from which forever maintains the physical structure of the building, thus guaranteeing to owners of space therein indefinite perpetuity of their Memorial.

It should please the people of Dixon to know that in drafting the laws for the State of Kansas governing construction of mausoleums of all types, Mr. Sidney Lovell was called to assist in that connection, which is further evidence of his being recognized nationally as authority in mausoleum construction.

To subscribers in Oakwood Memorial, we again say that the first cost is the last cost and that they are forever relieved of further obligation in connection with the maintenance of this beautiful Memorial.
